

National Republican.

MONDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 26, 1866

THE FOLLOWING FORM, written by H. T. COXHORN, was sent to Madam Rioton on Tuesday last:

TO ADELIAE RISTON, OR HER BETTER NIGHT,
NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 21, 1866.

The country's peace is the world's revenue;—
The world's peace is the world's heart;—
Another bond the art's embellishment yield;
Another form such nation's ready share;

Another voice still from shore to shore
That Italy is harmonized and free,

In the world's heart, the world's man more—
The soul that triumphs o'er existence Time.

Melodies breathes in Petrus's tender lay,
Singing to us, like a lark, the pure strain,

As the voice of life with freedom's day-to-day;
How sweet, Howst, it wakens here!

Each spelt the art weaves the woman's web;

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN

A GREAT CAMPAIGN PAPER.

READING FOR THE MILLION.
